

Why Teachers—Like Me—Left Kansas

In an October 13, 2015 op-ed in the Kansas City Star, 2012 KSTF Teaching Fellow Camden Hanzlick-Burton wrote about his decision to quit teaching in his home state of Kansas. Read his op-ed.

Camden teaches biology at Sierra Public High School in Seattle, Washington. He received the 2015 Outstanding New Biology Teacher Achievement Award—sponsored by Pearson, the Neil A. Campbell Educational Trust and the National Association of Biology Teachers (NABT)—and was named the 2015 Outstanding Biology Teacher for the state of Kansas by the NABT and the Kansas Association of Biology Teachers.